

National Day of Remembrance and Action on Violence Against Women

Light Beam Ceremony on Mount Royal: City of Montreal, Comité Mémoire and Polytechnique Montréal

We remember the 14 young women whose lives were cut short on December 6, 1989.

Geneviève Bergeron, 21 – Hélène Colgan, 23 – Nathalie Croteau, 23 – Barbara Daigneault, 22 – Anne-Marie Edward, 21
– Maud Haviernick, 29 – Barbara Klucznik-Widajewicz, 31 – Maryse Laganière, 25 – Maryse Leclair, 23 – Anne-Marie Lemay, 22
– Sonia Pelletier, 23 – Michèle Richard, 21 – Anne St-Arneault, 23 – Annie Turcotte, 21

In order to keep the memory alive of the 14 women who lost their lives in the anti-feminist attack of December 6, 1989, the City of Montreal, in collaboration with the Comité Mémoire light up the Montreal sky. At 5:10 p.m., the time when the first shots were fired, light beams will illuminate the sky one at a time, every few seconds, as the names of the 14 victims are called.
